

Power Up Your Energy Storage and Battery Success with EGI & MMTC

The Michigan Defense Resiliency Consortium (MDRC)

Primarily funded by the Department of Defense's Office of Local Defense Community Cooperation, the MDRC offers technical assistance support to companies seeking entry into the defense supply chain. Our mission is to provide the necessary support, guidance, and resources to help you unlock your full potential, and emerge as a valuable supplier to the Department of Defense.

Resilience Redefined: How Energy Storage Safeguards Critical Infrastructure.

MDRC Provides:

- Deep Dive Company Assessment
- Company Valuation
- Development of Opportunity Plan
- Up to 75K in cost-share funds for technical assistance projects for qualified companies

Eligibility Requirements

1. Located in Michigan
2. <500 employees
3. Financial Stability
4. Demonstration of their critical potential to address a particular need in the defense energy storage and battery supply chain.

For more information:

Sara Reynolds
reynosar@umich.edu

Jeff Williams
jwilliams@the-center.org

Or visit our website by scanning the QR code

